Appeals Perfected Now in Seven Cases For October Term. Here Will Be As Many More—Clerk Parsons Sending Out Printed Records in Two Suits—New London Italians Bound Over to Superior Court.

While the summer season means a vacation period for the superior court judges and the court, it imposes a busy season for the clerk, and Clerk Parsons is now busy perfecting the appeals for the October term.

In two cases to the judge and the attorneys in interest. These are in the case of town of Montville vs. Alpha Electric Light and Power Co., and in the case of town of Montville vs. John T. Almy, executor, and others.

In the Montville case the appeal is from the finding of the court for the defendant upon the plaintiff's answer to the defendant's plea in abatement. The appeal has been perfected in a highway.

In the second case mentioned, which is brought to obtain a commission of the peace in a case involving the estate of Norwich, the matter comes before the superior court as a reservation for the court to make a ruling on the request of all parties to the suit.

A large docket is promised for the October term. Up to the present time the clerk has received for the October term seven cases for the October term here on the superior court and it is probable that there will be many more in process of completion.

Bound Over to Superior Court. Antonio Priolo and Marietta Ferlauto, who were brought to New London from New York, Monday, to answer a charge of adultery were bound over to the superior court Wednesday morning. Probable cause was found by Police Judge Colt, before whom they were presented in New London.

Constancio Priolo, husband of the accused woman, was the only witness for the state. He said he married his wife, formerly the wife of his brother, nine years ago in Italy. She had five children, three by the previous marriage. Priolo is a cousin of Ferlauto. He came to this country about five years ago, but went back and two years ago came here again with money Ferlauto advanced to him. He then lived at Ferlauto's and worked for him as a barber.

On June 10 last Ferlauto charged he discovered the duplicity of his wife and cousin. He saw Priolo and his wife in a compromising position from a place of hiding behind the door. Ferlauto said he punched and kicked Priolo, that he had ruined her. Ferlauto accused her and Priolo asked Ferlauto to kill him.

The state had no other evidence to offer than Ferlauto's testimony, and Mrs. Ferlauto told her husband no witnesses at the hearing. Judge Colt fixed the amount of bonds for each of the accused at $750.
